About tomwalshbooks

Tom Walsh's earliest education began in parochial schools in San Francisco. At 19 he took a summer job in the motor pool two floors underground at a large public utility company. He finished his Management degree at night at St. Mary's College of California and by the time he left the utility company 20 years later, he had ascended the management ranks. As Tom's professional career advanced he had the opportunity to collaborate on business ideas and work in start-up companies. He has always been an avid and creative letter writer. Whether he was making a case for business decisions, improving TV content, or reporting poor customer service, his correspondence hit the mark to effect change. When a complaint is heard in the Walsh household, his family tells Tom, "Write a letter!" So, it only made sense that one day they said, "Write a book!" Tom is empty-nesting in Sonoma County with his wife. They have two young adult daughters.
