The launch of Max Web Uk's low cost service package fills a void in the market. High quality does not mean high prices, strong competition has driven Max Web to establish a Design and Software engineering solution to end all price wars. Equipped with a price match Guarantee, Max Web is setting the standard very high indeed.

PR9.NET August 10, 2004 - MAX WEB UK, a British based Internet Solution Provider specialising in website design and software engineering has made its way deep into the budget Internet Solutions market.

'The main aim of the move' said Max (the head of Max Web UK) is to 'fill a void in the small business market' that he believes is under exploited.

Max an experienced web professional believes that Small businesses are being taken advantage of with over priced bespoke software deals and 'custom web designs' that will simply not provide a good RTOI (return on investment).

The company has recruited a well established and talented stable of programmers and designers with Max himself providing support and project management. 'streamlining is the key...without this we would not be able to afford to offer the low price guarantee' commented Max.

Max commented that he estimates upto 90 percent of small online business have been overcharged or somehow duped into buying a service they didn't require and most likely could not afford.

Max Web UK operate an Honour and Honesty policy and are ready to make their mark on the much stagnated industry.
