

Pokernews.com - sets the goal to become leading online poker community

Pokernews.com, October 04, 2004

URL: <http://www.pr9.net/games/online/1248october.html>

Pokernews.com from now on will become a place where online poker community will gather to read more news and articles about poker. Some other new features will be helpful for new virtual community to grow.

PR9.NET October 04, 2004 - POKERNEWS - the website masterminded by top poker professional "Tony G", announces new features, to establish itself as the world's leading poker information website.

Starting immediately will be

WHERE TO PLAY AT HOME: a worldwide directory of home games, to help poker players get together. Players will be able to enter a location and find out all the home games where in their area where newcomers are welcome.

TRY THESE GAMES: an ongoing list, with descriptions and rules for dozens of poker games never played online or in card clubs. Many of them feature 'wild' cards - which often lead to wild entertainment! Players looking for alternatives to Hold'em, Omaha and Stud will find plenty of games here to make their home games fun, fast and furious.

These new features will augment a website that is already proving to be the leader in finding the best online poker rooms, giving news of poker round the world, reviewing poker books, and defining poker rules.

And this is just the start. Tony G (for Guoga), who hails from Melbourne, Australia, says: "Every week from now on, poker players will find new, exciting and helpful features to continue our effort to provide everything poker players need. Poker is booming - and so is our site."

###

About Pokernews.com

www.pokernews.info provides up-to-date poker news, features game reviews, home poker games locations, poker rules, games and variants, poker books and video poker game links. Poker jokes and a poker terms section have recently been added. And players can ask and answer questions in its poker forum.

Website: <http://www.pokernews.info>
E-Mail: john@pokernews.com