

Safeward Inc. teams with C.C. Inc. to deliver secure wireless biometric access solutions.

Safeward Inc., November 24, 2004

URL: <http://www.pr9.net/business/services/1350november.html>

Safeward Inc., a wireless biometric secure access solution provider, teams with C.C. Inc., a leading provider of technology integration, to offer businesses, military and government agencies with a secure wireless new access control solution.

PR9.NET November 24, 2004 - Toronto, Canada - Safeward Inc., a wireless biometric secure access solution provider, teams with C.C. Inc., a leading provider of technology integration, to offer businesses, military and government agencies with a secure wireless new access control solution. The new solution integrates biometric verification devices with the wireless technology, beyond the IR, smartcards and badge-readers access capabilities. We are extending the research to include all major manufacturers of biometric products and wireless transmission methods into our solutions. Organizations and agencies will be able to control the access to secure areas and to their physical assets in a way that was simply not possible before. "We are pleased to have partnered with Safeward Inc. to further develop our common technology solution. The solution we now offer is in response to the requirements for worldwide increased security, which must include biometric authentication" stated Ioan Hossu, President, C.C. Inc. "Future developments of this technology will be done in cooperation with our partner, Safeward Inc., which will handle the Investor Relations, Product and Solution Deployments, as well as the Strategic Development of the New Products". Crinu Iliescu, President, Safeward Inc., stated that "We are well positioned to address the new security concerns of governmental and business communities with our unique technological solutions. I am confident that our proprietary secure access solutions can be tailored to a wide range of applications and environments which will improve security around the world."

###

About C.C. Inc.

C.C. Inc. (www.cci-panama.com) is a Systems Integration Value Added Reseller (SIVAR) and is committed to supplementing and providing expertise to customers, leveraging technology as a business tool and allowing them to focus on their core business. C.C. Inc.'s technical business solutions include: Enterprise storage area network solutions, Network and data security, and Biometric control access systems. C.C. Inc. is a Panamanian corporation founded 2001.

About Safeward Inc.

Safeward Inc. is a wireless biometric secure access solutions provider and the first company to provide for vehicle onboard biometric wireless modem access solutions to secured environments or to gated communities. Our solutions are suitable for implementation at high security military facilities, border crossings, prisons, airports, banks, private clubs and estates or other gated environments.

Website: <http://www.safeward.com>