PR9.NET July 08, 2005 - Performance parts are meant to deliver exactly what its name implies...performance! Cars are manufactured based on a standard set of specifications, engine power may vary from trim to trim, or model to model but for the ultimate in performance enhancement, turn to performance parts.

Most car enthusiast pop-up a supercharger for extra power, but you don't need to be a professional racer to enjoy the feeling of power that only a great engine can give. Parts Train takes you on a new character and gear up for the street racer mode. While you are at it, get a high performance transmission. There are special transmission kits that fit the 1998-up transmissions and are made to compact the sloppy shifts and thwart unwarranted stress of the bands and clutches. This also permits you to regulate the shift firmness.

Parts Train Performance mufflers are designed for maximum performance; minimum backpressure and minimum noise are a great addition to your car. Listen to your Honda purr and moan as you cruise around the block, and see that those mufflers were worth every dollar you spent.

Parts Train's high quality Honda body parts, Replacement Parts, can maintain all of these impressive qualities of the Honda Ridgeline Pickup. Years of delivering superior product lines have made Partstrain a favorite among car enthusiasts. Like Honda, Partstrain does its best among competitors.
