Editorial Effort Expands with contributing industrial journalist TR Cutler. Time-Compression Technologies continues its editorial commitment to valuable information, by having Cutler provide articles and special features that focus on strategies and technologies.

PR9.NET July 15, 2005 - Thomas R. Cutler, President and CEO of the largest manufacturing PR and marketing firm, TR Cutler, Inc. (www.trcutlerinc.com), recently became a regular contributing industrial journalist to Time Compression Technologies magazine.

Time-Compression Technologies (www.timecompress.com) continues its editorial commitment to valuable rapid product development information, by having Cutler provide articles and special features that focus on strategies and technologies for reducing a product's time-to-market while improving quality and managing costs.

Topics such as R&D, management, sales and marketing, Internet, engineering, tooling and manufacturing issues that affect product development leadtimes are examined each issue through technical articles, application stories, practical pointers and profiles written by leading experts like Cutler.

Time-Compression Technologies magazine has a qualified circulation of 20,000. Cutler's most recent feature article contribution in the publication may be viewed at www.trcutlerinc.com along with several other samples of industrial journalism.

Thomas R. Cutler is also a contributing journalist for other important manufacturing and industrial publications:

- Advanced Manufacturing
- American Metal Market
- Business Integration Journal
- Canadian Manufacturers and Exporters
- Fabricating and Metalworking
- Food Engineering
- Food Quality
- InMFG magazine
- Industrial Computing/InTech
- IT for Industry
- Machine Design
