Voice123 is now helping podcasters find the perfect Voiceover talent to record their podcasting sessions.

PR9.NET August 12, 2005 - New York, NY - Who hasn't heard about podcasting nowadays? Well, it's the latest in digital media. At this moment in time, anyone can share news, books, training sessions, and more through the web. Podcasting allows you to download and listen to audio files and broadcasts when you want and where you want. With an ever-growing number and variety of podcasts, listing and finding podcasts is becoming a challenge to online services and a must for net-savvy people.

When you hear the word podcasting, you may think you need an iPod to listen to podcasts, but the truth is that podcasting listeners don't necessarily need to have an iPod or any portable music player to hear them. Podcasts are available on the web, mainly as MP3 files which can be listened to directly from a website, downloaded to your computer, or transferred to portable music players. The most important benefit of podcasting is that you are able to decide what you want to hear and ultimately create a personalized audio program. For example, if you are interested in politics news, movie reviews and information about latest technology gadgets, you can search in a directory for podcasts related to these topics and choose which ones you want to subscribe to, they will then be automatically downloaded for free.

As podcasting is a technology available to anyone who has internet access, it's a great way to communicate with people who are your target population. Companies and individuals can use podcasting to build an effective communication channel and a loyal relationship with a specific audience. This is the main reason why it's becoming more and more popular and everyone wants to be part of this trend. Now, if you are considering having a podcast for you or your company, you are going to need a voice over talent to record the voice for your podcast. This is where Voice123 can help you.

Voice123 (www.voice123.com) is a valuable tool for those that were bitten by this bug and created their own podcasts, and for those who are thinking about entering this technology. What many don't realize is that successful podcasting is based on two factors: the content and the voice. The good news is that you will only need to worry about creating good content while Voice123 provides the voice. Any size companies, major podcasters, or independent producers will find Voice123 the most reliable, fast and easy way to get the best voices for their podcasts.

Voice123 has the largest online database of voice over actors to help podcasting producers choose the right voice talent to record their sessions. Through the simple process of posting a project, receiving replies, and selecting a voice, producers can receive their podcasting sessions, ready to publish, and in a timely manner. The majority of Voice123's voice over talents have their own recording studios, which assures a fast turnaround and high quality productions.

With Voice123 you will not only find voice overs for podcasting projects. Their website also includes voices for any type of voice over recording, ranging from radio and television commercials, to movie trailers, corporate presentations, cartoon characters, on-hold messages, and IVR systems, amongst others. What's more, you will find voice talents of almost every foreign language and in thousands of locations around the world.

Check it out and see why you'll have the biggest tool for podcasting, after the iPod itself, at your fingertips. To see how Voice123 works and listen online to voice over demos, refer to their search feature: http://voice123.com/web/common/search_talent.cgi Podcasting will continue growing, and the rewards of using it could potentially be very high if used wisely. Now that you've found Voice123, an important tool to produce successful podcasts, a podcasting program for your company or yourself, it becomes an excellent resource to keep in mind.
