Impact of ERP Upgrades Explored by The Manufacturer Magazine

PR9.NET September 19, 2005 - The Manufacturer (www.themanufacturer.com) is an essential tool for US manufacturing executives, covering all aspects of managing a successful production operation. The Manufacturer is a magazine for manufacturers about manufacturers, aiming to both stimulate and inform. In today's tough competitive environment, few executives have time for in-depth reading, but The Manufacturer gathers together the latest views and opinions on issues and manufacturing practices, providing our readers with the knowledge to encourage success. In the current issue Thomas Verzi, Director of Sales and Marketing, was interviewed about the ways in which non-integrated ERP systems are costing small manufacturers huge headaches when attempting to upgrade.
