China is slowing opening its doors and the corporate world is moving in and forming companies to take advantage of having a China company.

PR9.NET September 18, 2005 - China is slowing opening its doors and the corporate world is moving in and forming companies to take advantage of having a China company. Thanks to the mandates from the China WTO more and more companies are setting up in China. They see the easy of China company formation and the direct benefits of being based in China strong reasons to move their companies to China.

Healy Consultants has been forming companies in Hong Kong, Dubai and Singapore, but in recent months the demand for China company formations has become so great that they have opened a new division to handle this demand.

Healy Consultants president said "in the last 3 months we have been getting daily requests from clients in regards to setting up a China company" and when we look into this ourselves we see that Healy Consultants aren't the only ones that are getting inquiries about China. It seems that China is such a hot commodity that there are several new company formation companies launching simply trying to catch in on this demand.
