PR9.NET September 22, 2005 - As the name suggests, Online Ghar is India's First Mega Portal. With the help of your valuable feedbacks and responses the website has. We welcome you to the new era of Online Real Estate in India. Be the great one by making a new history, the craze, which has never ever executed in India, is now ready to takeoff. Yes, it is the new generation for India's online real estate brought to your by Online Ghar.

OnlineGhar's mission is to provide an honest and informative resource to help homeowners navigate the home selling and buying process. OnlineGhar focuses on three primary areas: finding out what your current or future home is worth; preparing your home for sale; and finding the right real estate agent, architect and developer. We strive to create an innovative and efficient channel for homeowners and buyers to connect with qualified real estate agents while preserving their privacy and control.

Our Philosophy

The OnlineGhar foundation is built upon honest communication between all of our participants. Our guidelines and operations are based upon four basic values.

We believe the best real estate services can be found on an open platform, and that an honest, unbiased environment can improve the real estate experience.

We believe consumers should have control over their home selling or buying decisions and that choice is essential for a service that promises fair and open competition for services.

We recognize and respect the role qualified real estate agents and developers play in the transaction.

We recognize that there are many choices when it comes to real estate services and we believe consumers should be informed of all possibilities.

OnlineGhar is committed to these values and believes that OnlineGhar participants should honor these values as well -- whether buying, selling or discussing real estate.
