TR Cutler's Manufacturing Journalism Scholarship Program Managed by Dean Schmidt

PR9.NET September 27, 2005 - Dean Schmidt, Vice-President of Operations for TR Cutler, Inc. has been named the Manufacturing Journalism Scholarship Coordinator. According to Cutler, "It is terrific to have Dean manage this important effort. His objectivity, integrity, and excitement for this program are valuable assets to the company and participants." The deadline for submitting scholarship applications is January 6, 2006; TR Cutler, Inc. expects more than a thousand journalism students have responded to the first annual manufacturing journalism scholarship award. After graduation, the scholars will be given an opportunity to continue their journalism careers as freelance contributor for TR Cutler, Inc. The scholarships are intended for students with an interest in the manufacturing sector. Thomas R. Cutler has built the Manufacturing Media Consortium that includes more than 2000 journalists covering the manufacturing sector. The scholar is chosen for his or her interest in journalism pertaining to the manufacturing sector; the scholarship is for $2,500. Each year, TR Cutler, Inc., (www.trcutlerinc.com), the nation's largest manufacturing marketing and public relations firm offers one college scholarship to an outstanding journalism major of an accredited college or university.

TR Cutler, Inc. was founded by Thomas R. Cutler in 1999. Cutler maintains extraordinary relationships with clients, journalists, editors, trendsetters, and key business leaders worldwide and has become a key resource for those writing about the manufacturing sector.
