Unclassified GPS nano technology now available to the public. A micro GPS tracker that fits in the palm of your hand can log the location of a vehicle or asset for up to 24 moving hours.

PR9.NET October 17, 2005 - A micro GPS tracking device using previously classified government GPS technology released to the public for the very first time. The MicroGPS sold exclusively by www.spygadgets.com, the online division of Covert Systems Group, LLC of Houston, TX, fits into the palm of your hand.

This non-real time tracker can be placed inside a car, backpack, on a bike, boat, plane, pet, you name it. It will log up to 100,000 positions and save the GPS data to an internal memory chip. When you retrieve the tracking device simply attach the included USB cable and download the data to your computer.

Never before has a micro GPS tracking device been offered in such a small package. With the internal, super sensitive GPS antenna the micro size of this tracking device is amazing.

Retail price for this unit is $499.95 and supplies are limited. Visit www.spygadgets.com or call 877-779-2261 for full product details.
