

New Credit Card Balance Transfer Alert Service Saves You 1000s

Inteltab, November 03, 2005

URL: <http://www.pr9.net/home/consumerinfo/2878november.html>

Have you ever considered the dream ticket of always having an interest free credit card at all times, no matter what the circumstances? A new credit card alert service allows you to do just that by sending you an automated email to remind you before the interest free period expires, and then allows you to transfer credit card balances semi-automatically. This is a free service.

PR9.NET November 03, 2005 - Who wouldn't want interest free credit for years and years? In theory that's possible. You just ensure you sign up for a 0 interest credit card balance transfer every time your 0 interest period expires. But is your bank ever going to actually tell you when the expiry date comes round? Of course not! The 0 balance transfer credit card is not something the banks and credit card companies like reminding people of.

But all that is about to change. Technology can do a lot to simplify the way we handle our interest free balance transfer credit card accounts. If only we could remember exactly when the 0 interest balance transfer credit card period is about to elapse we could ensure 0 interest, free credit card use for a long time.

That's where the Internet's new Credit Card Balance Transfer Alert service comes in. Whenever a customer orders a credit card from this site they can send off what is known as an autoresponder. This will then tell the customer when the interest free period is due to expire. An email will arrive a week or so before the zero interest credit card time is up, thus allowing enough time for a 0 interest balance transfer to a fresh account.

This could be a 6 month interest free credit card or a 9 month interest free card. In some cases there also exist 12 month interest free credit cards where the balance transfer can take place over just a few days.

CEO Gordon Goodfellow says 'We already have hundreds of very satisfied customers on our credit card balance transfer alert service. People seem to like the simplicity of it. Who among us can remember a specific date just like that? In effect it means that our customers never have to pay for even one day's interest being charged. It's like having a 0 APR credit card for as many years as there are transfer offers.

'Our records are updated electronically every time a new credit card with 0 APR offer comes along, so nobody misses out. The website gets data directly from the card providers to our customers.'

Best of all, the Credit Card Balance Transfer Alert Service is completely free.

See the web site for further details at <http://www.credit-card-transfers.co.uk> (UK cards)
<http://www.credit-card-transfers.com> (US cards)

###

About Inteltab

Gordon Goodfellow is an Internet technologist who lives and works in London. His credit card sites automatically alert people before the interest free period ends.
www.credit-card-transfers.com and www.credit-card-transfers.co.uk

Website: <http://www.credit-card-transfers.com>
E-Mail: inteltab@btinternet.com