PRONTO North America offers Manufacturing Planning

PR9.NET November 22, 2005 - Manufacturing processes vary greatly between different industries and frequently differ within the same company. PRONTO-Xi handles product made to stock, made to order, assembled to order, and even engineered to order. A full range of tools are offered from traditional shop floor control, planning and work order methods to production without work orders, reducing the administrative burden significantly.

Manufacturing Planning provides additional tools for consistent and predictable business performance, including:

-  Advanced Forecasting
-  Master Production Scheduling (MPS)
-  Material Requirements Planning (MRP)
-  Distribution Requirements Planning (DRP)
-  Capacity Requirements Planning & Scheduling (CRP)
-  Just in Time (JIT)
-  Production Planning (PP)

According to Mike Ligudzinski, CEO of PRONTO North America, "Shopfloor Manufacturing and Manufacturing Planning provide the planning, execution, and monitoring systems to streamline all the processes involved in the transformation of raw materials and components into finished goods. PRONTO offers great flexibility, supporting a wide range of manufacturing industries, while still maintaining ease of use and straightforward implementation."

PRONTO North America, Inc. based in Eden Prairie, MN, is widely recognized as the authority in technologically driven business solutions and process management. Utilizing innovative implementation techniques and tools, PRONTO North America generates increased performance, service, efficiency, and accountability.
