PR9.NET November 28, 2005 - Aurora, Co - Tyrone Short announces publication of A Christian's Look at Daytime Soap Operas in conjunction with Lulu (www.lulu.com), the world's fastest-growing provider of print-on-demand books.

This book's main focus is women who may have a strong passion for the daytime soap operas. In today's world where divorces have become common practice, the daytime soap operas may have become highly influential in this growing trend. Are these shows promoting values that we can incorporate into our lives? Tyrone Short walks through scriptures to illustrate his points.

Tyrone Short designed A Christian's Look at Daytime Soap Operas because of the need of many to turn to God. He came to Lulu because he wanted to be in control of the publishing process and found Lulu's print-on-demand tools to be fast, easy and, most importantly, free.

A Christian's Look at Daytime Soap Operas is available for purchase at www.lulu.com/PrinceTrog in a marketplace filled with other unique, and sometimes, downright strange, items.

Tyrone Short states that, "Writing the book was the hard part. Getting it published and printed through Lulu was a breeze."

"Lulu.com is the Internet version of an open-air, but underground, marketplace. It's fresh as the outdoors, but our individual thinkers, independent authors, emerging artists, digital do-it-yourselfers and the people that love them come to Lulu for more than just 'books as usual'," said Henry Hutton, Director of Operations, Lulu. "We enable access to new, unique voices and ideas, such as Tyrone Short's A Christian's Look at Daytime Soap Operas, to an audience that demands it, all in just a few clicks."
