'Azerbaijan24', young tour operator, created by a team of enthusiastic Azeri individuals now enters its 3d season with their new-guided tour in Azerbaijan. 'Azerbaijan24' biking and walking itineraries allow their clients to venture off-the-beaten path and experience the country in a more personal fashion, meeting the locals and seeing the sights through their eyes.

PR9.NET November 28, 2005 - As the gateway to Central from the East and lapped by the waters of the Caspian Sea, Azerbaijan history is dominated by the old trade routes of Eurasia - especially the Silk Road. Some 6,000 historical monuments dating from thousands of years ago and built by a myriad of cultures beckon travelers to this nation in the Caucasus.

In the antiquity and in the Middle Ages Great Silk Road crossed the territory of Azerbaijan as from the East to the West, as from the South to the North. It has made possible an active participation of Azerbaijan in the trade and the information exchange with many countries throughout the world. It is symbolical that even in the remote antiquity, alongside with other goods, petroleum was exported from here, known worldwide as "the midian oil".

Ancient cities and towns, palaces, mausoleums, churches and mosques, chapels, caravanserais and watchtowers are just some of the monuments which remain to fascinate visitors, warmly welcomed by the Azeri people whose reputation for hospitality is legendary.

Besides its historical attractions, Azerbaijan also offers the stunning natural beauty of its diverse landscape which includes the seashore, forest, mountain and plain, and a climate so diverse that one can experience the four seasons in one day in various parts of the country.

Priced at $1100 per person , this trip includes seven nights' lodging, all breakfasts, 4 dinners, all transport, permits and entry fees to all activities included in itinerary. An experienced local guide will accompany you for the duration of the trip, and expert travel planning services of the 'Azerbaijan24' staff. This tour is available for group bookings, which are eligible for considerable discounts. Available all year round.
