Gransha Taxis is the way to go if you need transport in Belfast this Christmas

PR9.NET December 07, 2005 - If you've ever tried to get a taxi in Belfast at Christmas time you'll know what a nightmare this can be! At Christmas time there seems to be twice as many people looking for taxis as there are taxis on the road. Waiting for a taxi in the cold can be one of the worst parts about Christmas. If you're shopping in the town and need to get home with all your Christmas shopping then the last thing you want to do is stand in the cold for 30 minutes waiting for a taxi.

The Christmas season should be about fun happiness and a good atmosphere. A good way to uphold this tradition is to make sure that your day of shopping isn't spoiled by the cold wait.

The best way to make sure you're not left out in the cold is to call Gransha Taxis (<http://www.gransha-taxi.co.uk>). Their cheery day drivers will pick you up in super fast time.

On those late nights over the Christmas holiday, when you've had a bit too much to drink, and it's getting a bit too bright outside, and all you want to do is get home and go to bed then you can rely on Gransha's courteous night staff to get you home.

And because Gransha Taxis isn't a city centre firm their prices are reasonable (http://www.gransha-taxi.co.uk/Taxi_Fare_Structure.htm) even though their service is immaculate.

So, if you want to get about Belfast this Christmas check out the new big-shooter: Gransha Taxis!
