Dropshiparea.com, supported by Vellum LLC, is an Internet project that offers a free directory of dropshippers, assists in promoting websites and gives access to free information on dropshipping and wholesale services.

PR9.NET December 08, 2005 - Vellum LLC started a new Internet project that provides free information, essential for those who are in the dropshipping and wholesale business. Dropshiparea.com assists both in finding dropshippers or products and in promoting websites or business projects. It offers all necessary information on how to run dropshipping business, that includes but not limited by: news, reviews, articles and more.

Dropshiparea.com has a database of dropshippers, that allows to gain more details about drop shipping companies and their terms, and then to come into contact with them if their offers are satisfactory. The directory is worked out for the convenience of customers - it is accessible from any computer on the Internet and can be reached at any time.

The owners and supporters of Dropshiparea.com are interested in each drop ship sale, that's why the directory is constantly updated and re-verified. The information is free, what means, that there are no entrance fees to the directory. It's significant both for novices in the dropshipping business, who lack any experience and knowledge and don't wish to risk any money, and for experienced dealers, as it's a chance to save their funds.

Dropshiparea.com passes on all kinds of information regarding dropshipping and home business. It gives full instructions on how to deal with wholesale distributors and manufacturers of different products and brands. It provides online tips, tricks, articles, reviews and advice that highlight dropshipping and wholesale tendencies as well as the most frequent problems, which dropshipping dealers may face. Dropshiparea.com offers to subscribe to their newsletter to be aware of the industry news and events. It also gives a list of some useful related books and manuals that constitute an important source of educational information.

Dropshiparea.com guarantees privacy and security. It doesn't share or exchange online information, which their visitors provide with free registration (including e-mail addresses). All personal details are encrypted and secure.

Dropship business model appeals to a large number of people, as:

- it's an opportunity to build one's own home business
- it doesn't require any advance investments
- there is no need to stock inventory and to rent a warehouse
- it involves little responsibility
