To many Yoga enthusiasts respect for the harmony of Chakras is an integral part of the overall experience. It is from this intensely personal and colourful aspect of Yoga that a new company, called ChakraVibe.com has emerged.

PR9.NET December 12, 2005 - Yoga, the ancient exercise system that stretches and strengthens the body through various poses known as asanas, is attracting North American participants in numbers as high as 15 million. Recent Harris polls have revealed that as many as 100 million North Americans will admit to at least a 'casual' interest in Yoga and its benefits. Perhaps nothing speaks to the growing Yoga movement more than the $27 billion spent in product related sales annually. An increasing array of products has presented new options for holiday gift giving.

A meaningful element of Yoga is the awareness of Chakras. Often identified as energy points, there are many throughout the body although seven principal Chakras are found at key locations of the spine. Balancing the Chakras through Yoga is thought to deliver physical and spiritual well-being.

Chakras are most often associated with colors with the Root chakra being Red. Other Chakras are recognized as being orange, yellow, green, light blue, Indigo, and bright white which is commonly depicted as purple or gold.

To many Yoga enthusiasts respect for the harmony of Chakras is an integral part of the overall experience. It is from this intensely personal and colorful aspect of Yoga that a new company, called ChakraVibe.com has emerged.

ChakraVibe create handcrafted jewelry that celebrates the balance and harmony of the mind, body and spirit. Unique necklaces, earrings and chokers are created drawing from the essential essence of the chakras. Each has been designed to enhance the individual qualities of one or more of the chakras that reside within each individual.

ChakraVibe use Swarovski crystals and luscious semi-precious gemstones gathered from around the world. These are integrated into numerous attractive styles, each celebrating the humanity of chakras and the intrinsic power they bring to personal balance.

ChakraVibe have chosen a holistic path on which to develop their corporate culture. Their stated philosophy indicates a dedication to policies that range from fair wage practices to environmentally friendly practices and packaging.

Ample support is provided to those wishing to select a jewelry item to give as a gift, beginning with a user friendly website for online ordering and including with each choice, specific information about the significance of the piece and its role in the achievement of personal balance and harmony.

Although spiritual chaos and emotional distraction are often the byproducts of our modern world, ChakraVibe have sensed that an ancient and fundamental element of the human experience could yield products and gift items that they believe can help to restore balance and harmony to the wearer.

In this sense ChakraVibe are proud that although the items they offer are real breathtakingly beautiful jewelry and related items, the true gift is the inner peace and serenity they can inspire. And that is a gift that will always be welcomed.
