New Dynamic Marketing, Inc. NDYM an Internet Marketing and Technology company has documented 10 months of profitable application of a patent pending marketing process. This was achieved without any added marketing expense, which resulted not only in greater sales, but higher profit margins.

PR9.NET December 14, 2005 - Fort Lauderdale, Florida - New Dynamic Marketing, Inc. OTC:NDYM has developed a Patent Pending proprietary process that has consistently increased sales by 38.9% over the last 90 days. This type result was achieved with products in the weight loss field over the last 10 months.

Lee Schwuchow, CEO comments that this success was duplicated since last March in a joint venture with a similar company that achieved like results, however, he points out that this Patent Pending process should be equally successful for a variety of products both physical or digital such as software. NDYM uses a business model that provides a joint venture with appropriate businesses without any investment or additional marketing costs.

Some of the distinguishing characteristics are:

1. This process lays to rest any of the downfalls of traditional "upselling".
2. Profit margins are enhanced through the benefit of reduced fulfillment costs, marketing costs, and investment.
3. Implementation is accomplished without any risk to current ongoing marketing or sales approach.
4. Product loyalty is enhanced through an optional second phase addressed in future releases
