Special web site honouring the life and times of master musician Clive Bradley. The greatest musicians in the world speak about Clive Bradley.

PR9.NET December 16, 2005 - New York - Clive Bradley is studied, honored, and revered. Few of us get the chance to find and engage in, that one unique thing that you are better at than anyone else in the world. Fortunately for the rest of us, music composer, producer and arranger Clive Bradley through luck, faith or design - found his way to the steelband music medium; and in a relatively short time became undisputably the greatest steelband music arranger. But he was far more than an arranger - he was simply a marvelous composer... In reality Bradley was the greatest composer of music for the steelband orchestra. His music thrilled generations of people. For almost 40 years Clive Bradley scintillated, titillated and dazzled the world with his music masterpieces that took us on emotional journeys and spiritual highs like few musicians ever have. That he would use the steelpan instrument and steelband orchestra as one of his vehicles to fulfill his destiny, is not only an honor, but also a pointed example to us all...

His passing continues to make news all over the world as news outlets as diverse as the North Korean Times to the New York Times carried news about Clive Bradley's life and achievements.

When Steel Talks will continue to highlight the achievements, life, and times of Mr. Bradley.
