GizMac Accessories Introduces Titan Nano iPod Case... "Cause' Everyone Wears Their iPod Differently"

PR9.NET January 24, 2006 - Torrance, CA - GizMac Accessories LLC, designer and manufacturer of innovative products for the Apple platform, announce the Titan case for iPod Nano.

GizMac, known for their XRackPro noise reduction enclosure for Apple Xserve and Xserve RAID systems, introduces the new Titan iPod case. The new Nano iPod case is part of GizMac's emerging line of accessories for the Apple platform.

"What separates the Titan iPod case from the competition is the many number of ways the Titan can be worn," says Tim Cave, founder of GizMac, "The other great feature of our Titan cases is the incredible anodized aircraft aluminum finish, anodizing produces amazing colors not found in plastic, rubber or leather...purple, gold, pink, aluminum and black will be our initial colors, future colors will include blue, orange, green, red and others."

"Cause' Everyone Wears Their iPod Differently" is the motto of the Titan case for a good reason, the included carabiner clip, arm band, belt clip with 360 degree rotation for vertical, horizontal or any position in between and lanyard accessories provide a wide range of ways to wear the iPod Nano. The Titan goes even one step further with the ability to easily change whether the top or the bottom of the iPod Nano faces upward or downward, providing unmatched flexibility.

In addition to its unique look from using anodized aircraft aluminum, the Titan case also provides a superior strength to weight ratio by the use of lightweight metal.

Further details on the new iPod cases can be found on the GizMac Accessories web site, <http://www.GizMac.com>. Information can also be obtained by calling the Southern California corporate headquarters at (800) 475-1677.
