New and brilliant concept in Real Estate advertising chops the world into little pieces. Will Donald Trump buy up the world a million pieces at a time?

PR9.NET February 23, 2006 - San Francisco, CA -- The most explosive marketing concept in Real Estate has just been unleashed on the world at www.virtualworldrealestate.com. The company VirtualWorldRealEstate is selling pieces of the world one pixel at a time, at least the Virtual World that is.

Anyone wanting to own a piece of the world can buy that tropical paradise or deserted island. How would you like to own Los Angeles, New York, Paris or perhaps London is your cup of tea. Real Estate Professionals or private individuals can buy geographic areas to advertise their business, properties and web sites. Travel agencies can own hot destinations, and hotels and resorts can advertise their properties www.virtualworldrealestate.com is a new and unique web site that displays a graphically rich image of the world and blends it with the ability to select specific geographic locations that Real Estate Moguls like Donald Trump or even your Aunt Mildred can buy to display their properties.

How would you like to purchase entire cities, counties, countries or continents which can then link back to your business or personal web site. Even a single family selling their own home can buy Podunk, Anywhere and own that piece of virtual real estate.

The concept for www.virtualworldrealestate.com came from a six year old boy who was having fun in Disneyland and asked this question. "Daddy, can we live in Disneyland"? His father thought about this for a moment and said, "Son, we can do better than that, we can own Disneyland." From there a tremendous amount of time, energy and money was poured into getting www.virtualworldrealestate.com running.

Even if you're not selling anything, but want to say that you "own" Manhattan, this can now become a reality. www.virtualworldrealestate.com has opened up the virtual real estate market to anyone that can afford 1 or 2 cents per pixel. A pixel is one of those little dots on your computer screen.

In addition to the benefit of owning world marketing virtual properties, your business or personal web site can benefit by obtaining one way back-links to your site. The Google search engine really likes one way back-links when they are calculating their Page Rank (PR). Google Page Rank is an indicator of how popular a site is, and the higher the PR the better.

A huge land rush is expected while people select what prime virtual properties they want to own, but just like all other land rushes, only the first people there will get the top choices.

Do YOU want to own a piece of virtual real estate, or even a piece of world history?
