Janco has just launched it IT News Portal Site <http://www.newsgroupworld.com>. This site consolidates the RSS news feeds of all the major IT news sources

PR9.NET February 26, 2006 - Park City, UT – Janco has just launched an Information Technology News Portal - <http://www.newsgroupworld.com>. The portal provides links to the top RSS news feeds which relate to Information Technology. The news feeds are dynamically read and placed in HTML format without the use of a news reader by the user. Victor Janulaitis, the CEO of Janco, said "The purpose of the IT News Portal is to augment the tools that Janco provides to its clients on its web sites and to focus on providing a value added that aids IT professionals in improving productivity."

Janulaitis also said, "With the proliferation of so many news sources Janco felt it was necessary to provide a one-stop shop location for IT professionals. With www.newsgroupworld.com individuals interested in information technology news can come to this site and see formatted newsfeeds without cluttering up their individual news readers." He added, "Newsgroupworld uses an automated process to capture the RSS (xml) newsfeeds and generate static HTML pages. At the same time the site maintains links to the source of the news and protects the copyright of the new provider."

The static pages load quickly and eliminate the overhead associated with the constant capture and re-capture of the news pages. Since the pages are in HTML format they can be read by any browser without the user having to link to the individual RSS news feeds. With this approach newsgroupworld.com provides a one stop approach to see what is new in the Information Technology world.

Janco has a number IT portals including <http://www.e-janco.com> (Janco corporate site) and <http://www.itproductivity.org> (IT Productivity Center). These web sites are information portals for business executives who manage the Information Technology function. Mr. Janulaitis said, "These portals provide Information Technology management productivity tools to executives and IT professionals. The portal has templates and reports covering Sarbanes-Oxley to Information Technology Service Management (ITSM) and Disaster Recovery Planning."
