"Dying Every Day" and "DMZ//38" join Weedzone.net, offering their music in the popular Weed music format

PR9.NET March 15, 2006 - USA – Weedzone.net, the shared music distribution site for NewHatRecords, has added 12 new songs by "Dying Every Day." This electronic-influenced alternative rock runs the gamut from bruising rocker "These Memories Are Scars" to the dark industrial-piano-ballad "Tears in Rain" to the lush and beautiful acoustic-based "Like Unsought Grace."

Also new are 3 songs from DMZ//38. This rebel poet's awards include Outstanding Political Band of the Year and a nomination for Outstanding New Artist at the 2005 Rockie Awards.

Other featured artists include:

Suicide Sanctum - Dark electronic music, covering everything from electro-industrial dance grooves to dark-ethereal soundscapes; Jason Peri - The Threshold of Yesterday - Retro pop with a sixties vibe; Dave Tilton - Taking folk music to a new place, adding jazz elements, exotic and electric sounds, along with some great lyrics and melodies; Luke Wyatt - Creating a new sense of electronica; The Seventh Triangle - Always interesting mixtures of rock and jazz; Guilty Pleasure - Good 'ole pure melodic rock; Aversion Therapy - Experimental dark ambient project of the individual known as Doktor Fetish.

In addition, Weedzone.net provides access to a wide variety of music by other Weed artists.
