IncomeHarvest announces a marketing relationship with Kanosis Ltd. Both companies will introduce Coil, a software-as-a-service, to the global marketplace using Relationship Marketing.

PR9.NET February 22, 2006 - San Diego, CA - IncomeHarvest announces that it has established a marketing relationship with Kanosis Ltd., a Cyprus-based corporation. Both companies intend on introducing Coil, a software-as-a-service, globally - commencing on May 1st, 2006.

Coil allows subscribers to communicate and collaborate globally, at the highest security levels, using any Internet connected computer.

Coil was originally developed for large corporations to help increase team productivity and efficiency - it does this by eliminating communication bottlenecks and providing real time information to all subscribers. Collaboration with employees, vendors and clients is easily accomplished regardless of location. Secure private meetings can take place, on the Web, protected from malicious Internet viruses, corporate espionage or hackers.

Coil, and subscribers' critical data, is hosted in strategically placed, world-class, high security global data centers - individuals, entrepreneurs and small businesses can now enjoy a level of security that was previously only available to large corporations, banks, or government entities with vital infrastructures.

Each Coil subscriber can encrypt critical, business-sensitive, data prior to its upload to the closest data center. Data that has been uploaded is insulated from data loss that would occur resulting from virus attacks, hard disk crashes or power surges on on-site computers.

IncomeHarvest will be marketing Coil using Relationship Marketing. Entrepreneurs, who use Coil and share it with others, will receive a referral fee - 70% of Coil's monthly subscription fee is returned to those who introduce the service to the global marketplace. Viral Marketing with a bonus!

Lee Matthews, President of IncomeHarvest, stated: "The Coil environment is sophisticated, yet simple to use. It unites the global community via an interconnected, secure platform - a place where everyone can meet and communicate, shop or transact business. But best of all, it's a place where everyone can generate an -actual- profit from the experience."
