Pharmacy OneSource, Inc., pharmacy's #1 documentation and formulary application service provider, and Maplewood Software, a provider of online, departmental-level scheduling solutions, announced today Pharmacy OneSource's acquisition of Maplewood Software's ScheduleRx product.

PR9.NET May 25, 2006 - Bellevue, WA--Pharmacy OneSource, Inc., pharmacy's #1 documentation and formulary application service provider, and Maplewood Software, a provider of online, departmental-level scheduling solutions, announced today Pharmacy OneSource's acquisition of Maplewood Software's ScheduleRx product. The acquisition includes Maplewood's ScheduleRx software and existing pharmacy customer base.

"We are very pleased with the agreement. ScheduleRx dovetails with Pharmacy OneSource's existing product line and sales model," said Nancy Janzen, CEO of Maplewood Software. "We believe Pharmacy OneSource, maximizing their excellent marketing and sales channels, will take ScheduleRx to an even higher level of market penetration."

ScheduleRx is the only pharmacy-specific, web-based, staff scheduling solution available today designed specifically to meet the needs of pharmacies. Skill-based scheduling is fully automated with ScheduleRx. It greatly reduces time used in the creation and editing of schedules to save pharmacy directors frustration and money. Maplewood Software currently has 45 U.S. pharmacy departments using ScheduleRx.

"We are very pleased to have acquired this superb pharmacy application," said Keith Streckenbach, Executive Vice President of Pharmacy OneSource. "Together with our other applications, Accupedia, Amplifi, DIOne, Quantifi, Simplifi 797 and UnitStock, this new product solidifies Pharmacy OneSource's commitment to high performance pharmacy standardized."

Pharmacy OneSource will be responsible for the further development of ScheduleRx and its marketing, sales and full-service support.

"Mutual customers mentioned the Pharmacy OneSource name on several occasions and after initial discussions, it was obvious there was an excellent synergy between our companies and product lines," said Janzen. "This business arrangement promises to work well for both companies and more importantly, our customers."
