EngineeringJobs.net is offering two free job postings; the postings will run for a full 2 months.

PR9.NET July 18, 2006 - Chicago, IL – EngineeringJobs.net, the most focused engineering job site designed to connect employers and engineers is celebrating its Fifth Anniversary of success. Since launching in 2001 EngineeringJobs.net has gained industry recognition, becoming one of the most visited engineering job boards.

EngineeringJobs.net has been using highly focused marketing campaigns resulting in a steady stream of skilled engineers seeking new career opportunities. Companies who are searching to fill their engineering positions quickly and effectively have learned that this is the premier site to find the right candidates.

To mark their anniversary and to invite new clients to tap into pools of highly targeted and skilled engineers, EngineeringJobs.net is offering two free job postings; the postings will run for a full 2 months. This is an excellent opportunity for recruiters and HR Managers to efficiently find the right match and easily manage applicant flow.

To take advantage of this offer, after registration at www.engineeringjobs.net, they will need to email mail@engineeringjobs.net. This special offer is available from July 20 until September 1, 2006.
