

Softomate Offers Tools for Target Web Data Search and Collection

Softomate, August 01, 2006

URL: <http://www.pr9.net/comp/development/4209august.html>

Softomate, leading software development company, has launched new service in custom software products line — custom Web spider software development. Web spider crawls the Web, searches and extracts specific data, by predefined criteria. Customization allows setting the parameters required for specific results needed.

PR9.NET August 01, 2006 - Lynden, USA - Softomate, leading software development services provider, announced Custom Web Spider software development service launched to design custom software for specified web data search and extraction. Customized program lets find on Web and extract the data required, on predefined criteria.

The service is intended to provide software that lets replace manual efforts in information or other data search and collection, by automating this process. Customization allows to set parameters to accurately find and extract specific data needed and deliver the results meeting the request.

The spider program implements automated web search on predefined parameters and extracts the information or any data specified. Spider program is able to search the entire Web or be customized to mine certain web sites or web pages, chosen by customer. The process can be fulfilled on the schedule or continually. Then spider software delivers the data collected and sorted into database in format required.

The announced service offers custom software to extract urls, email addresses, web pages titles and meta data, images, music files, advertisements, press releases, articles, news, product catalogs, cultural, political, commercial and other sorts of content from web sites, directories and search engines results listings.

For more information about custom Web Spider software development please visit http://www.softomate.com/services/web_spider/web_spider_software.htm

###

About Softomate

Founded in 1998, headquartered in Washington, USA, with offices in Australia and Russia, Softomate provides international software development services, including web development, porting and migration services; Softomate has profound experience in custom software development in variety of areas.

Phone:	+1-877-2438735
Website:	http://www.softomate.com
E-Mail:	press@softomate.com
Address:	104 6th Street, Unit B Lynden, Washington 98264 USA