Smartfax supplies value added services to businesses as fax industry matures into a multi billion dollar industry.

PR9.NET August 04, 2006 - Canton, Mi – Internet Fax's versatility has made a significant change in virtual telecommunications today, making the fax industry develop into a Billion Dollar Industry. With the effectiveness and swiftness of electronic mail, developers have thought of merging fax with email. This paved the way to the development of internet or virtual fax. Moreover, since online fax uses a virtual number which makes use of email, the hassle of installation of fax machines and telephone lines is eliminated.

Since the creation of internet fax until the present, the fax industry matured into a billion-dollar industry and is forecasted to grow five times more in 2009 than it is presently. Also recently, the growing demand for fax is unparallel with the deployment of fax machines in offices making fax or phone traffic congested. Due to this, virtual faxing is expected to grow drastically.

Internet Fax's versatility has made it one of the most sought-after commodities presently. Many of its features fit every user's need like email to fax and vice versa. All it needs are a virtual number and an email address. It eliminates installations of additional phone lines and fax machines. And since it involves email, the fax documents can be sent in a more personalized manner.

Smartfax adaptability to technological transformations makes it one of the most trusted brands in the fax industry. Once provided with a Smartfax virtual number and an email, a customer would enjoy Smartfax's unique features. With Smartfax, customers get the convenience of sending documents via email to fax machines and vice versa. With four cost-effective packages to choose from, customers get the value for their money. Lastly, with Smartfax's wide array of contact information, customers would have an easy time raising their concerns to Smartfax's knowledgeable customer relation specialists. Beat the hype while professionalizing your business communication with Smartfax.
