

Screaming Bee Provides Voice Changing Game Resources for Day of Defeat

ScreamingBee, August 09, 2006

URL: <http://www.pr9.net/games/online/4250august.html>

An online resource provides Day of Defeat players with useful information on voice changing. The educational page shows gamers how to easily integrate MorphVOX with the game.

PR9.NET August 09, 2006 - Middleton, WI - Screaming Bee LLC has created an online gaming information area for players of Day of Defeat. This provides gamers with education and tips on how to best use MorphVOX voice-changing software with Day of Defeat. This is one of the many game-related articles found in the Screaming Bee Gamer Information Center (GIC).

"We are seeing a significant number Day of Defeat players who use voice chat. There is a need for this resource," explains Shawn Pourchot, President of Screaming Bee. "Our Game Information Center has expanded to include information helpful to Day of Defeat players who are looking to integrate MorphVOX with the game."

As a regular player of Day of Defeat, Pourchot is a strong proponent of providing educational material on how best to use voice changing with the game's built-in audio channel. Much of the material in this resource was drawn from his interaction with fellow gamers. In addition to providing tips on integrating MorphVOX with the game, the new educational page includes information on how to optimally use voice changing with Day of Defeat.

The Day of Defeat GIC resource can be found here: <http://www.screamingbee.com/support/morphdoc/MorphGamesDOD.aspx>. Players who need more information can browse the detailed FAQ (Frequently Asked Questions) page or the MorphVOX documentation area. The Screaming Bee Voice Clinic or Support Team is also available for further assistance.

MorphVOX can be used with other online games, like World of Warcraft, GuildWars, Eve Online, and much more. It works well with many of the online chat clients, such as TeamSpeak, Ventrilo, and Skype.

MorphVOX is currently being used by thousands of online gamers around the world to change their voice. Players can now speak like their character, whether they choose to sound like the opposite gender, an enormous troll or a tiny pixie

###

About ScreamingBee

Based in Middleton, Wisconsin, Screaming Bee is a leading provider of voice software and solutions for online games, VoIP and multimedia applications. Screaming Bee's high-quality voice morphing technology is used in online games. Gamers can now have voices to match their in-game characters. The flagship product, MorphVOX Pro, can be used to morph an existing audio file or record a voice directly to file. Studios that use this tool can save time and potentially thousands of dollars by creating multiple voices from existing stock audio or a single voice talent. MorphVOX Pro is used by professionals in a number of fields, including education, radio broadcasting, and animation.

Website: <http://www.screamingbee.com>

E-Mail: sales@screamingbee.com