A new audio add-on provides vintage weapon sound effects for MorphVOX Voice Changer. The voice-changing product continues to add immersion to online games communications.

PR9.NET August 31, 2006 - Middleton, WI - Screaming Bee LLC announces the release of a new product, Ancient Weapon Sounds, an audio add-on for the award-winning product MorphVOX Voice Changer. The new software module contains 11 vintage weapon sound effects. The Screaming Bee Web site provides more information on this audio component and access to a free download.

"Ancient Weapon Sounds fits quite well in the Fantasy gaming genre," explains Mark Ramirez, CEO for Screaming Bee. "This will be a popular add-on for a number of online gamers."

Ancient Weapon Sounds designed for use in online games and audio instant messaging. It has a number of gritty war sound effects that can be used in a Fantasy RPG environment. Users can now broadcast sound effects of various weapons and impacts, including swords, arrows, and whips.

This plug-and-play add-on can be downloaded from the Screaming Bee Web site and easily installed. These sound effects can be quickly used online and in game. Further information on the Ancient Weapon Sounds audio component can be found here: <http://www.screamingbee.com/product/ancientweaponsounds.aspx>.

Screaming Bee has come out with many new themed Fantasy and Science Fiction product add-ons based on user input from players in online games such as World of Warcraft, GuildWars, Dungeons & Dragons Online, and Eve Online. These accessories provide users with many new game-relevant voices and sound effects. Add-ons are free and can be downloaded from Screaming Bee.

MorphVOX is currently being used by thousands of online gamers around the world to change their voice. Players can now speak like their character, whether they choose to sound like the opposite gender, an enormous troll or a tiny pixie.
