Voices.com, the voice over marketplace, is thrilled to announce that voice over demos at Voices.com are played back at the highest audio quality in the industry, MP3 128kbps.

PR9.NET September 09, 2006 - Toronto, Canada – Voice talents in search of a website to host and promote their voice over demos will be pleased to learn that Voices.com supports all major file formats for digital audio and video. Furthermore, audio files, commonly known as MP3s, are played back at 128kbps, which is the highest quality available in the industry.

While others within the broadcast industry feel that 32kbps or 64kbps is sufficient for suitable playback of voice over demos, Voices.com has always given their talent the ability to showcase high quality voice samples, setting the example and once again raising the bar.

Voices.com is home to over 7,000 voice actors from around the world, representing over 50 languages. Businesses can search for voice talents using the Voices.com search engine, listen to MP3 voice over demos immediately, and then contact the talent by email to learn more.

Voices.com CEO David Ciccarelli says, " We understand that quality is what people are evaluating when in search for the perfect voice for their audio production or multimedia project. By offering high quality MP3s, we are showcasing all voice talent members at Voices.com in the best and most professional manner."
