Voices.com, the #1 voice marketplace, has just implemented a new and incredibly easy way for clients to purchase voice-overs with PayPal.

PR9.NET September 22, 2006 - Toronto, Canada – Voices.com, the leading voice over marketplace, unveiled their new platform for accepting online payments by clients purchasing voice-over services via PayPal, conveniently located on each voice talent website hosted at Voices.com.

When clients are ready to pay voice talent for their work, all they need to do is scroll down the voice talent's website at Voices.com and click on the PayPal logo on the right hand side of the page.

The secure payment gateway between Voices.com and PayPal ensures that the funds are directed to the correct PayPal account, in other words, to an email address that the voice talent has associated with their accounts at both Voices.com and PayPal.

The details are confirmed on screen. From there, the client enters the agreed upon amount into the payment field. After this step, PayPal displays a confirmation screen confirming the payment details.

By clicking on the "submit" button, the client purchasing the voice-over will be able to send the agreed upon funds directly to the voice talent's PayPal account.

Voices.com CEO David Ciccarelli says, "One of the reasons why our customers love our service is for its simplicity and transparency. This new integration of PayPal makes using the Voices.com website an easier and more convenient alternative to traditional invoicing, saving time and paperwork."
