

ToTheCenter.com opens news forum for political enthusiasts

TrekkerTime.com, September 25, 2006

URL: <http://www.pr9.net/comp/internet/4502september.html>

The new online magazine lets users of all viewpoints share their political opinions.

PR9.NET September 25, 2006 - Malverne, NY – Whether they are Republican, Democrat or anything in between, political buffs and everyday people alike are invited to speak their minds on ToTheCenter.com, a new online magazine that gives users the power to write their own news stories.

ToTheCenter.com is designed for users of all political viewpoints, advancing nonpartisan news that has a widespread impact. The recently launched site divides its stories into categories including world and local news, business and U.S. politics.

In addition to writing their own stories, registered members can comment on stories that others have written and provide their opinions on the issues. A discussion board also allows members to converse about politics and a variety of other topics including religion, sports and popular media.

Users can become members by completing a quick registration form on the site's home page.

ToTheCenter.com was developed by Dominick Miserandino, author and executive editor of sites such as the long-running entertainment magazine TheCelebrityCafe.com and the new travel guide TrekkerTime.com.

###

About TrekkerTime.com

TrekkerTime.com is an online travel guide made by travelers for travelers.

Phone: (516) 812-8611
Website: <http://www.trekkertime.com>
E-Mail: dominick@thecelebritycafe.com

---

PR9.NET - Your Free Press Release Service