Today RealOrganized, Inc. announced the release of a public beta test version of RealtyJuggler Desktop.

PR9.NET October 19, 2006 - Windsor, Colorado - Today RealOrganized, Inc. announced the release of a public beta test version of RealtyJuggler Desktop. RealtyJuggler Desktop helps Realtors and other real-estate professionals organize their busy lives by tracking prospects, clients, closings, promotions, lock boxes and yard-signs. The software runs on any Internet equipped computer and can be used in a team environment allowing agents to share information with assistants and partners.

"The real estate industry is changing rapidly. Agents are no longer tethered to their brokerage offices. They can work from home and get just as much done. The Internet and cell phone technology has made that possible. RealtyJuggler Desktop is an ideal tool to facilitate that new way of operating. I can get at my information from home or the office, and I can share that information with my assistant all without having to drive anywhere." says Davette Everly co-founder of RealOrganized, Inc.

The current Beta version of RealtyJuggler Desktop is available for a free trial at:
