PR9.NET November 14, 2006 - Aurora, CO USA - Potty Training Rewards will be a featured product by Teri Crane, The Potty Pro, at American Baby Faire presented by Babies "R" Us this weekend (Nov 18-19) at the NJ Convention & Expo Center in Edison New Jersey.

Potty Training Rewards uses its advent-calendar style cabinet, a push button voice chip, along with visual memorization association to help teach the growing child how to use the potty. PTR comes in two versions, accommodating either the young boy or girl.

Each PTR consists of 24 individual windows containing a chocolate surprise. After the child has successfully used the potty, they press the push button, which gives them a congratulatory message, which says: "Great job you're a big boy (girl) now open a door and find a surprise!"

Under each chocolate surprise, a picture, which matches another on the exterior, is revealed. The child can then match the identical images, serving as a memory game.

Teri Crane is known as the "Potty Pro" to the thousands of parents, teachers, and childcare providers who have gone through her potty training boot camp. She is also the author of, Potty Train Your Child in Just One Day. More information can be found at www.thepottypro.com

American Baby Faire is the nation's largest expo for expectant and new families presented by Babies"R"Us. American Baby Faire delivers 13,000-20,000 attendees at each of its seven two-day events! More information can be found at www.americanbabyfaire.com
