In collaboration with Quenchware LLC and Q-Burns Abstract Message, QubesTunes.com delivers hours of free DJ mixes music for all.

PR9.NET November 20, 2006 - Orlando, FL -- It took about a year to develop says Trey Newkerk of Quenchware LLC. I spoke with Q-Burns Abstract Message (Michael Donaldson) last summer about an idea to put several of his DJ mixes in one spot for all to enjoy. (www.qubestunes.com)

While House Music remains a genre of music that is largely considered underground QubesTunes intends to take that notion out completely. "The fact is that music is for all and the more we hear the more it can enrich our lives. After all the arts do exactly that." says Michael.

Q-Burns Abstract Message has been actively recording DJ mixes since 1995. Found scattered about on cassette tapes, CD dupes, radio airwaves, and internet links it was time to collect as many as they could and put them all in one place. Thus, QubesTunes.com was created to give everyone access to the hundreds of Q-Burns Abstract Message DJ mixes that we found. "We'll also be highlighting other DJs in Orlando's house music movement and will be adding new mixes by Q-BAM and others as we get them." says Trey Newkerk.

One of the best attributes of QubesTunes is that it is 100% free for everyone. Many people not only do not know where to get these great DJ mixes that they hear when they go out, but also often can not afford to pay for the variety of tracks on every mix. All you need is a name and an email address and you have instant access to 6 gigs of funky house DJ mixes for free.

"We will be adding more mixes practically every week" says Michael. "We also plan to have exclusive mixes for our members and much more".

With so much free music Q-Burns Abstract Message and Quenchware expect QubesTunes to get very popular.

"We want everyone to download at least one free mix." Says Michael. Electronic music at it's finest.
