Titan Gear iPod Nano Accessories Can Now Be Shared Between Family and Friends that Own a New iPod Nano

PR9.NET November 20, 2006 - Torrance, CA – – GizMac Accessories, designer and manufacturer of innovative cases and accessories for the Apple iPod, announces the upgrade of their Titan Gear for the new iPod Nano.

GizMac packages their Titan Gear accessories for the second generation (2G) Apple iPod Nano with armband, carabiner clip, belt clip and lanyard attachments all included. But even with all four attachments included, the original version only allowed for use of two of the four attachments at one time.

A new version of the Titan Gear iPod Nano accessories attachment set now allows for use of all four attachments at one time if desired. Switching between attachments with the new version is as easy as sliding the new Nano out of one attachment and into the next one.

"With this upgraded version, Titan Gear can be shared between family and friends." Says Ken Vitto, Director of Marketing for GizMac Accessories, "Armband, carabiner, belt clip and lanyard attachments can be divided and shared between anyone with a new iPod Nano, making the Titan Gear an even better value."

The upgraded version of Titan Gear for the new iPod Nano is now shipping, the price is $24.99 and includes the four attachments, which can now function separately.

GizMac's Titan Gear can be purchased through authorized Titan Gear resellers and through the GizMac web site at <http://www.gizmac.com> or by calling the corporate headquarters at (800) 475-1677.
