Now children can receive a colorful email from Santa Claus himself! The Good-Child-Guide.com, a leading resource that helps parents with their children's behaviors, is excited to announce the launch of its new, FREE, "An Email from Santa Claus" Service available at http://good-child-guide.com/email_from_santa.

PR9.NET November 26, 2006 - Vernon, BC, Canada, -- What young child wouldn't love to receive a personal email from the Big Man, Santa Claus, himself? Especially when that email shows that Santa knows what the child wants for Christmas, and even her friend's name? Now, thanks to Good-Child-Guide.com, a leading resource that helps parents with their children's behaviors, any parent can schedule just such an email for their child, absolutely free, simply by going to http://good-child-guide.com/email_from_santa.

Intended primarily for little children who still believe in Santa Claus this service will, no doubt, delight a lot of parents and grandparents too. "In fact," says Dr. Noel Swanson, MD, the creator of the service, "it would make a great surprise for a child, and her parents, if the email were arranged, in secret, by an aunt, uncle or other friend or relative".

Naturally, all email details are kept in total confidence, and privacy is ensured.

Sending children an email from Santa is simplicity itself:

- The parent or relative simply goes to the website and fills in some details about the child - such as their name, and what they are longing to receive for Christmas.
- A delivery date is then chosen. This is a key feature, as it allows parents to set up the email at their convenience, with delivery of the email scheduled for a particular date.
- The text of the email that is to be sent can then be previewed and, if desired, can be fully edited.
- Once the details are confirmed, a button is pressed, and the email is scheduled.

On the specified date parents can then watch their children's faces light up with delight and excitement when they receive a colorful email, just for them, from the Big Man himself.

"An Email from Santa Claus is fun way to excite and inspire your children," said Dr. Noel Swanson, MD, a certified child psychiatrist, "which fits right in with my philosophy on good parenting. With all the stress and strife in the world there is a great need for a lot more FUN in family life."

In fact, having fun as a family is one of the key points in Dr. Swanson's manual, The GOOD CHILD Guide, a highly acclaimed resource that teaches parents simple but highly effective parenting strategies for stressed-out families. This, along with other parenting tips and advice on managing child behavior problems, are available from the <http://good-child-guide.com> website.
