Clients can now skip the wait and receive immediate job posting approval, getting their voice over opportunities out to thousands of voice talents.

PR9.NET November 27, 2006 - Toronto, Canada - Remember using special wristbands at the local fair or amusement park to help get to the front of the line without having to wait? Most people remember and agree that the convenience of the wristband paid for itself over and over again. Of those individuals, many wish that they could get that kind of service in other parts of their lives, too.

In response to that desire, Voices.com has recently instituted a fast track for busy advertising agencies, businesspeople, and organizations to rush their job postings to the front of the line, bypassing the wait and reaching their goal quickly. This new option is called the Express Job Posting.

The Express Job Posting fee is $29.95, a very modest sum for the convenience and results an Express Job Posting at Voices.com yields. People who post a dozen or more jobs a year and are looking for speedy approval can also benefit from the Express Job Posting, investing in an annual subscription, either the Business Edition ($99 per year) or Enterprise Edition ($199 per year) to receive the ability to post an unlimited number of Express Job Postings.

Voices.com CEO, David Ciccarelli says, "Getting to the front of the line with the Express Job Posting is a marvelous idea and a fantastic service. Our customers often wonder how they ever did business without it."

Voices.com is home to over 8,000 voice talents and has served over 37,000 clients worldwide.
