Maximum Motorsports torque arms, caster/camber plates, subframe connectors, and performance chassis enhancements to First Place Performance catalog.

PR9.NET December 06, 2006 - LAS VEGAS, NV - First Place Performance Ltd. is proud to formally announce its addition of Maximum Motorsports to its product catalog. Maximum Motorsports manufactures performance engine and suspension enhancements for the Ford Mustang. First Place Performance Ltd. markets its products to the performance automotive enthusiasts by its website, <http://www.fppauto.com>.

Maximum Motorsports was established in 1992. Since then their staff of performance enthusiasts, designers and engineers has worked hard to create some of the most innovative performance products available for the Ford Mustang. Maximum Motorsports is well respected as a leading developer of suspension systems and performance parts consistently receiving praise from the automotive press, the aftermarket performance industry, and customers.

Some of the products Maximum Motorsports was the first with:

- *Caster/Camber plates that are independently adjustable for both caster and camber.
- *Caster/Camber plates that were designed specifically to accommodate a coil-over conversion.
- *Coil-over conversion kits for Bilstein struts and shocks.
- *Roll bars that could be installed to meet the NHRA rules without requiring that welding be done inside of the car.
- *Bumpsteer analysis proving that installing offset steering rack bushings on a stock k-member made the bumpsteer situation worse.
- *Strut tower braces that attached to the firewall's pinch weld, its strongest point.
- *2-point braces as standard equipment on an aftermarket K-member.
- *Full-length Subframe connectors. They even invented the name.

First Place Performance Ltd., www.fppauto.com, is proud to offer these Maximum Motorsports performance products and welcomes inquiry into these products for your vehicle today.
