New Web Site Pays Users to "Catch Other's Souls"

PR9.NET December 09, 2006 - NY, NY – Collection of Souls is proud to announce that after months of development, their web site, CollectionofSouls.com, is now officially up and running.

The revolutionary site pays members to "capture souls" or refer people to the site. At the end of each month, the site member who has "captured the most souls" will receive $100 via PayPal.

Participating is completely free and the only information that is required is name and e-mail address. PayPal address will also be requested of all winners at then end of each month so that they can be paid.

The site is really very simple to use. Once a member signs up, they will receive an e-mail in their inbox with a special ID link. Anytime someone clicks on that ID link, the member "capture their soul" and the number of souls that they have captured is automatically updated.

CaptureYourSoul.com even includes a "Tips" section where you can get helpful pointers to help capture more souls. Some tips include using forum signatures and even investing in cheap online advertising.

"We at CollectionOfSouls would like to give something back to all our visitors, which is why we reward them."

You can visit Collection of Souls and start capturing souls at <http://www.collectionofsouls.com>.
