

Freelancer Panel Releases Version 1.0.0

Freelancer Panel, December 21, 2006

URL: <http://www.pr9.net/comp/development/4919december.html>

Freelancer Panel has been under development for over six months, and has finally released version 1.0.0.

PR9.NET December 21, 2006 - Cincinnati, Ohio - With New Years right on the way, millions of resolutions are made. 'Organization' should be one of the top on everybody's list, and it just got easier for freelancing professionals.

Announcing Freelancer Panel, web software designed for the individual in mind. Freelancer Panel has the power to keep track of everything a freelancer may need. Projects are easily added with as much or as little detail as needed. A client database keeps every client's information and their project(s) neatly organized. Clients have the ability to login to see the status of their project and the estimated deadline. This provides exceptional ease of communication between client and freelancer. Invoices are easily generated for payments. You can generate invoices based on projects or custom invoices with any amount of invoice items. The client then is able to pay the invoices through either Paypal or Authorize.net modules. Freelancer Panel can even create your own portfolio to show potential new clients! The feature list is simply endless when it comes to Freelancer Panel - which is why it truly is the dream software of any freelancer! All of this is seamlessly integrated in Freelancer Panel's entirely customizable interface.

Freelancer Panel is to be released on Thursday, December 21, 2006. Tyler Cole, the product manager, is simply "ecstatic", "to finally unveil such a product into the freelancer market, which is far overdue for such a tool".

Tyler Cole first had the idea for Freelancer Panel back in January of 2005. He then began to develop the idea, and in May marked the first development of Freelancer Panel. After many months of development and rigorous testing, Freelancer Panel is now prepped for release of it's version 1.0.0.

There's no reason not to be organized - increase sales and customer satisfaction as a freelancer. For more information regarding Freelancer Panel, please see <http://www.freelancerpanel.com>.

###

About Freelancer Panel

Owned and operated by Tyler Cole, Freelancer Panel was created in August of 2006. Currently offering only the software Freelancer Panel and related addons, they have no plans to branch off into other types of software.

Website: <http://www.freelancerpanel.com>

---

PR9.NET - Your Free Press Release Service