Classified Update is proud to announce that it has officially launched and already has well over 400 listings in less than one month.

PR9.NET December 27, 2006 - Mumbai, India – Classified Update is proud to announce that it has officially launched and already has well over 400 listings in less than one month.

Classified Update is a new online classified advertisement web site where people can buy, sell, or advertise anything from cars to homes to hobby classes and everything else in-between. It is completely free to submit a listing and there are no restrictions on how much information can be included or who has access to the information. Classified Update also lets you keep track of incoming traffic to your specific listing with the "Views" section which tells how many times that page has been loaded.

All listings are nicely organized into one of twenty categories so it is very easy to find whatever it may be that one is looking for. The site's two largest categories, "Business" and "Employment", each have over 100 listings and contain information on companies for sale or products/services that show how to start a profitable business and employment opportunities in various fields.
