Resource newsletter of savvy insights for the indomitable entrepreneur makes its debut this month.

PR9.NET January 28, 2007 - TACOMA, WASHINGTON, The Virtual Assistance Chamber of Commerce (VACOC) has just launched its newest resource for small business owners. The Gritty Business Buzz, a resource of savvy insights for the indomitable entrepreneur, makes its debut this month. The newsletter will be published the second Wednesday each month.

The newsletter includes five key areas that address the constant needs of small business owners: business management, marketing and networking, outsourcing/Virtual Assistance, stress reduction and technology and software.

Danielle Keister, found of the Virtual Assistance Chamber of Commerce, explains, "We strive to meet the needs of the small business owner who is running a solo or small to mid-sized business. We know the small business entrepreneur is always looking for ideas, products and services to run smarter, more efficiently and more productively while getting the most value for their dollar."

The Gritty Business Buzz will address all of these functions and provide business owners with resources and information they need to meet their business goals.

The premiere issue of Gritty Business Buzz hit the Web on January 10. New readers can subscribe to the newsletter at <http://www.virtualassistantnetworking.com/grittybusinessbuzz.htm>
