TeachMeIT has announced the launch of its reseller partner program to help Value Added Resellers (VARs) as well as educational and career service providers profit from fast-growing demand for online courses.

PR9.NET February 01, 2007 - New Jersey, US: TeachMeIT, a leading provider of online courses in IT and desktop applications, has announced the launch of its reseller partner program to help Value Added Resellers (VARs) as well as educational and career service providers profit from fast-growing demand for online courses. The program is principally designed for website owners who are interested in adding online courses and learning solutions in their catalog of offerings.

"The TeachMeIT VAR partnership program is designed to help partners grow top line revenue without adding to the bottom line", said Sapna Jha, President, InfoPro Learning, Inc. "This program provides an excellent opportunity for partners to differentiate themselves from the competition by offering cutting-edge, high-value courses to their corporate clients", she added.

TeachMeIT's VAR partner program will provide resellers and service providers the necessary tools to successfully sell and service online training to their clients. It will allow partners to offer a FREE course on MS Office 2007 to be bundled with their products. The free course can be accessed from the co-brand website designed and developed by TeachMeIT. The program allows sharing of a pre-decided percentage of the sales generated from the partner's co-brand website. The partnership also allows partners to earn revenue both for individual purchases and corporate sales on terms and conditions mutually agreed between the two parties.

Joining the TeachMeIT VAR partnership program speeds up entry into the growing market of online training with distinct competitive advantages like:

- Additional revenue for partners
- Fast and easy to join program
- Co branded website for partners
- Easy navigation and shorter purchase cycle at co-branded website
- Constant updates on TeachMeIT product launch.
- Latest courses, such as Microsoft Office 2007
- Sales collateral
- Minimal upfront cost

Meanwhile, TeachMeIT has also announced the launch of ten online courses on Microsoft Office 2007. The TeachMeIT MS Office 2007 courses are being released on its all-new course engine designed for fast and easy access. High-value-for-money with anytime-anywhere access, the courses will enable organizations to streamline processes and better manage and control enterprise content.
