The new office at 75 Rock will allow Argent to provide additional support for its growing base of customers in Manhattan. The premier location will help Argent strengthen its position as the enterprise management vendor of choice in the financial, insurance, legal and media industries.

PR9.NET February 06, 2007 - Farmington, CT – Argent Software, Inc., today announced the opening of an office in New York City to support its expanding customer base in Manhattan and provide access to new business opportunities. The new location allows Argent to further concentrate on the financial, insurance, legal and media industries with its patented and award winning enterprise management software solutions.

As of 1 February 2007, a full complement of field engineers and sales executives will be situated in the new Argent office on the 18th floor of 75 Rockefeller Plaza to provide services to existing customers and develop additional business in the region. The prestigious and strategically located 33-story office tower previously served as the headquarters of Time Warner. The floor plan includes ample meeting and conference space, as well as facilities for Argent University, Argent's premier technical training program.

Andrew Blencowe, President and CEO of Argent, stated, "The opening of our world-class facility at 75 Rock positions Argent in the heart of key markets that are strategic to our growth." Blencowe added, "More importantly, the new location and addition of several new Argent Certified Engineers will allow us to continue to keep our promise of delivering unparalleled service to our customers."
