PR9.NET February 17, 2007 - Santa Rosa, CA: Manly Honda, the Honda dealer in Santa Rosa, California is more than glad to put the all-new Honda Fit 2007, a five door hatch-back on show at their dealership of Honda vehicles. The Fit 2007, Honda's all-new entry-level small car represents the victory of Honda creativity to prove that good cars don't have to be costly.

Fit 2007, the clever multi utility vehicle is not only fun to drive but also is an excellent value for the money delivering a fuel economy of 33 mpg in the city and 38 mpg on a highway. The two trim levels of the front-drive Honda Fit 2007 (base and sport) have a 1.5-liter, 109 hp VTEC four-cylinder engine that produces 105 pound-feet of torque at 4,800 rpm.

The 2007 Honda Fit has a design with a strong European influence. Fit boasts a balanced, sporty look given by the wheels outfitted at the farthest corners and an aggressive look contributed by the abruptly raked windshield.

Unbelievable interior space is the most striking feature of the Honda Fit 2007. A high roof, front and backseats that can be folded down into different configurations enable the Fit 2007 to accommodate passengers or cargo of just about any size. A cockpit set with slick dark-blue-backlit gauges, comfy and easy to grip sporty steering wheel, cup holders in the rear doors, abundance of headroom and front legroom and under-seat storage are the other features.

The 2007 Honda Fit surprisingly, delivers a sports-car like handling for a car of its class. With responsive and quick steering, the Honda Fit remains unwavering and well balanced on the road, even on the corners.

The 2007 Honda Fit features many safety measures like standard dual-stage, dual-threshold front air bags, side-impact air bags for both the driver and front passenger, side curtain air bags, four-wheel antilock brakes, electronic brake distribution, outboard lower anchors, tethers for children (LATCH) and the childproof rear door locks.
