PR9.NET February 16, 2007 - Thousand Oaks, CA – Whole Youth, a natural wellness and beauty distributor located in Southern California, has brought the herbal Annique Rooibos skin care products to the USA. The Annique anti-aging and beauty products are manufactured in South Africa from the Rooibos (red bush) plant, and are now offered for the first time to American consumers.

The well known anti-oxidant benefits of Rooibos tea have already been discovered by millions of people worldwide, who can testify to its ability to relieve infant colic and insomnia, as well as allergies and ailments across a broad spectrum of age groups.

The Annique Rooibos skin care products are recognized for its anti-aging and soothing qualities. Rooibos contains the unique asphalatin flavonoid, known to alleviate allergies and food intolerances. Research of many scientists from all over the world has also confirmed its ability to stave off viral and bacterial infections.

In summary, the Annique Aspalathus linearis (Rooibos) can keep you younger, healthier, boost your immune system and help prevent allergic reactions to the environment. These skin care products have been designed not to disturb the pH balance of the skin and do not irritate the skin.
